

A. H. CARDIN WANTS NIGHT RIDERS TO PAY FOR HIS BARN

Belongs Suit Against Men He Says Are Responsible For the Crime.

Eighth Suit Filed in Federal Court Here.

ALLEGES GENERAL CONSPIRACY

A. H. Cardin, of New Albany, Ind., formerly a resident of View, Ky., whose tobacco warehouse at View, in Cumberland county, was destroyed by night riders, the night of February 8, 1908, has brought suit here in the federal court for $16,400 against the following alleged night riders: William Neal, Charles Blue, Charles Smith, Polk Prince, George Shadon, William Shinn, Dr. David A. Amos, Thomas Amos, J. E. Hollowell, John W. Hollowell, Dixie Satterfield, Fred Darrah, C. H. Hannister, L. G. Hopper, Sam Cash, Milton Oliver, Alonzo Gray, John Merrick, James Merrick, Oscar Gray, Marshall Gray, R. R. Mitchell, Robert Gray, Peter Grimes, Barney Davis, Robert Oliver, Roy Robertson, Richard Robertson, John Glover, Herbert Oliver, Wallace Oliver, Clarence Sisk, Robert Oliver, Jr., Jim Salyers, Elliott Brown, Wiley Brown, Jim Glover, F. W. Oliver, Lowery Nabb, Irvin Hollowell, Walter Glover, John D. Rogers, W. H. Hall, Buck Lacey, Dr. J. B. Wadlington, Shelby Eldred, S. A. Hollowell, Buck Tandy, George Tandy, Jim Tandy, Roger Tandy, W. H. Tandy, Edgar Tandy, William Larkins, Arch Hollowell, John Nabb, Lindsey Nabb, Charles Wood, Richard Pool, George Pool, Bert Gray, Peter Grimmer, Guy Dunning, Herschel Dunning, Levi Dunning, Marvin Broadbent, Robert Nabb, Dock Nabb, Charles Nabb, Charley Gresham, Ed Gresham, Edwood Gresham, Lt. Cash, Hy Coleman, Thomas Gray, Urey Lacey, Charles Itadlington and George W. Barnes. All the defendants, excepting Polk Prince, of Tennessee, near Guthrie, are residents of Kentucky.

Nearly every defendant was either a defendant or an ally witness in the Hollowell case, the first filed in the federal court, and the majority are defendants in the case of Henry Bennett, while a number are defendants in the Birmingham raid cases. Elwood Neal, the deputy marshal, who is serving summonses for the federal court, now knows most of them by sight, and is experiencing less difficulty in finding and serving them. The most important defendant in all the cases, however, is Dr. Amos, reputed commander in chief of the night riders, now supposed to be in Stewart county, Tennessee. The marshal has never been able to serve him, and no one in the vicinity of his home appears to know where he is.

The Cardin Outrage.
Mr. Cardin was an independent tobacco buyer and the most prominent Populist in Kentucky. He had been repeatedly warned by the night riders, but he paid no heed to them. The night of February 8 last they made a raid in force on his home and shot it up. But Mr. Cardin was out of the state at the time, and the raiders contented themselves with burning his warehouse and leaving a warning for him.

This suit of Mr. Cardin's is the eighth to be filed in the federal court here against the night riders within twelve months. In the first case, that of Robert Hollowell against the Lamasco raiders, of which those defendants are alleged to be a part, a verdict for $35,000 was awarded and the suit compromised with those of Mr. Hollowell's wife and son. Three suits, aggregating $100,000 for the Birmingham raids are in process of settlement out of court.

Aside from the particular facts in the outrage against him, Mr. Cardin alleges verbatim the grounds recited by Henry Bennett. He tells of the organization of the Planors Protective association, "to establish a monopoly of said dark tobacco and to control the price and product of the same."

He alleges that "these defendants, members of said corporation, did conspire and confederate together, and form and organize a secret criminal society which was and is generally called and known as the 'silent brigade' or 'night riders.'"

He describes the organization of the night riders and says "the object and purpose of said criminal combination, conspiracy and confederacy was to compel all persons who grew, handled or owned said dark tobacco to join and become members of said association and pool and pledge their tobacco . . . and the further object and purpose of said society and said lodges was to inflict condign punishment upon all such growers, handlers or owners of tobacco as

Dulaney-Allen Troubles Furnish Another Serious Shooting Scrape --Jas. Dulaney Shot by Vic Allen

Affair Recalls Wounding of Riley Allen by Dulaney Nearly Year Ago--Wife of Latter Suing for Divorce.

Mayfield, Ky., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—Another Dulaney-Allen shooting episode occurred last night, and James Dulaney, who shot and badly wounded Riley Allen on the street here last year, was shot in the right arm. Vic Allen, brother of Dulaney's wife, who is suing for divorce, is under arrest, charged with the crime. He is a son of Gabe Allen, the well-known tobacco dealer. Dulaney was walking along Broadway when he was shot. Two rifle shots were fired. It is said Allen was in the neighborhood. Dulaney's wound is not serious. He is the son of George Dulaney, of Kirksey, Calloway county, and has relatives in Paducah. The shooting took place about 6:30 o'clock in the business section.

might decline or refuse to become members of said association or to pool their tobacco."

The further object, he says, was to "defeat the purpose of courts of justice in said counties, and of corruptly and by intimidation and threats, influence such courts and officers thereof, and the grand and petit jurors empaneled therein, and thereby unlawfully and criminally procure the release and discharge of any members of said society or lodges from confinement or trial for the crimes and offenses committed by them."

COL. R. Z. TAYLOR, WHO ESCAPED FROM REELFOOT NIGHT RIDERS, IN PADUCAH

Col. R. Z. Taylor, of Trenton, Tenn., is visiting his daughters, Mrs. Mark Anthony and Mrs. W. H. Mills. Save for some lingering traces of the nervous shock occasioned by his experience with the night riders of Reelfoot lake and the excitement of the trials at Union City, Colonel Taylor has entirely recovered from the physical effects of his ordeal. He was the companion of Quentin Hunkin, who was hanged and shot by the night riders at Reelfoot lake, and he escaped under fire, jumping into a bayou and hiding behind a log, until the night riders thought he was drowned. Then he wandered 21 hours without food, fearing to approach a human habitation, until he was forced to by the alternative of death from exhaustion. The first man he met was friendly and took care of him. Shortly afterward the night riders were arrested and Colonel Taylor has been at Union City attending the trials almost ever since.

His son, only 24 years old, is speaker of the lower house of the Tennessee legislature, and Colonel Taylor, who is an ardent "state wader," is greatly interested in the proceedings with regard to the prohibition bill.

He suggests that salaries of judges who delay decisions be withheld.

MRS. P. J. HEATH

DIES AT RENTON AFTER ILLNESS OF PNEUMONIA.

Renton, Ky., Jan. 12. (Special.)—Mrs. P. J. Heath, 68 years old, wife of a merchant here, died last night at midnight after a several days' illness of pneumonia. She was a popular matron of Renton, and her death caused sorrow. She leaves a husband, but no children survive. Her nearest relatives are two brothers: Col. R. H. Sutherland, of Paducah, and W. S. Sutherland, of near Elva. Mrs. Heath was a consistent member of the Methodist church, and a beloved woman. The funeral will be held tomorrow with burial in the Stow cemetery. Her brother, R. R. Sutherland, and nephews, A. P. Johnson and D. C. Johnson, of Paducah, arrived this morning.

He slashed their throats with a butcher knife. His daughter, Ida, who failed to attend breakfast, is the only survivor.

REPUBLICANS OF UPPER HOUSE WILL ATTEND SESSION

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 12.—Republicans in the senate adopted a resolution to attend the joint session tomorrow to canvass the vote in the recent election. Democrats are ready to present a petition for a recount of the election as soon as the vote is canvassed.

WITH SORROW AND JOY JACK FROST'S EFFORTS GREETED

Suffering, Pain and Pleasure Are Found Under Blanket of Snow.

Sleigh Bells Jingle—Charity Calls Many

WEST CATCHES A BLIZZARD

St. Louis, Jan. 12.—The cold wave and snow extend from Canada to the Gulf between the Mississippi and the Rockies. Trains are everywhere delayed. In the northwest the blockade is complete. Zero weather prevails generally. More snow is promised in the northern region. Moderation is expected in this vicinity. Local prediction is clear and warmer tomorrow.

Sleighs were out today, and the small boys have been in a sort of cold storage paradise for 48 hours, hitching his coaster on to the rear end of vehicles and flying through and over the snow, flat on his stomach.

Street cars have a hard time, although the tracks were cleared off early today. It was hard to start, and stopped on the icy rails. A Broadway car was undecided whether to go on down toward the river or make the loop at Fourth street and Broadway, and its front trucks started south on Fourth while the rear trucks stuck to their accustomed track. That blocked things for a time. However, there was little to complain of in the schedules.

The Poor People.

There is more suffering this winter in Paducah than for several seasons past, due to the fact that employment was slack last year and the opportunities to provide for the winter lessened. The charity club, the mayor and chief of police have been attending to a constant stream of indigent callers the last two days. People are starving and freezing in Paducah. Calls for coal and wood and provisions and clothing are more numerous than can be attended to promptly. It has been suggested that if merchants have shoes or clothing, thrown aside and unsalable, they can be used by the charity club in relieving the distress among the poor.

The Snow Fall.

The snow fall yesterday and last night was 3 1/2 inches, the largest snow fall in four years at Paducah. The temperature of 10 degrees above zero this morning was the coldest weather of this winter. Everybody that was the owner of a sleigh had it out last night and today enjoying the fine winter weather. The boys with the snow balls have been having their good time today. There are a few complaints because of the snow, but as a rule most of Paducah's citizens have taken great delight in the good old winter weather.

Pedestrians who were called out before 9 o'clock this morning had a great deal of trouble making headway on account of the snow almost shoe-top deep. Snow plows were put to work early and the sidewalks were soon cleared off. Old Sol did not seem to take much stock in the glorious weather and snow, but came out strong early this morning and attempted to do away with the snow.

Sufficient Number of Senators Sign Prohibition Bill to Pass It Over Veto of Governor Patterson

House, Organized by "State Widens," Passes Measure on Two Readings and Refers it to Committee.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 12.—By a vote of 10 to 6 the senate liquor traffic committee last night recommended the Holladay bill for passage. It was returned to the senate this morning and passed upon its final reading, 21 votes being pledged to it. This settles the state-wide fight in the upper branch of the general assembly.

Until the final vote was cast the galleries remained in an uproar. Every vote for prohibition aroused a cheer. Every vote against it created a hiss. The final announcement was the occasion of hurrahs which were heard a block away. It was a complete triumph for state-wide.

This assures enough votes to carry the measure over the governor's veto. The majority in the house seems assured. The "state-widens" organized it. Prohibition measures were passed on their second reading and referred to the committee, which is favorable to them.

Representatives from Chattanooga and Memphis are here on special trains to protest against prohibition. Governor Patterson sent a special message, summing up all the arguments against prohibition. Anti-prohibitionists complain they were not granted a respectful hearing before the senate committee.

Mrs. D. Lofton Dies.
Mrs. D. Lofton, 50 years old, of Sharp, died this morning after a short illness of pneumonia. Eight children survive. The funeral will take place tomorrow with burial in the King cemetery.

Dorian Takes Appeal

A motion for a new trial in the case of George W. Walters to oust City Treasurer John J. Dorian from office was overruled this morning in circuit court by Judge William Reed. Attorneys Crice & Ross asked for an appeal to the court of appeals and it was granted. The granting of the appeal will suspend the decision of Judge Reed until a decision from the higher court is heard.

MERCHANTS WILL DEMAND LICENSE FOR ALL ALIKE

Members of the Retail Merchants' association met last night to discuss the increase in the license of the retail merchants. Several members of the association said that they had offered to pay the one license of $25, but were refused because they carried on a business for which two or more licenses were required. After a thorough discussion of the subject, the association decided to ask the general council to fix one license for retail merchants. If the council refuses to change the license the association will carry the matter to court to test the validity of the ordinance. A committee of three has been appointed to enter the protest to the council. The committee is composed of Messrs. D. E. Wilson, E. B. Harhour and J. W. Glenes. The committee has been in consultation with Hurns & Burns, attorneys.

Foraker Has Floor

Washington, Jan. 12.—In a speech to the senate Foraker denounced Detectives Brown and Baldwin, who secured alleged confessions from negro soldiers in the Brownsville affair. He charged their employment is illegal and their $15,000 fees invalid. He charged the men with securing money under false pretenses. He called attention of law officers that they should be prosecuted. He read letters from a dozen soldiers denying they made the alleged confessions. He produced an affidavit saying Conyer's confession was pure fabrication. The senate passed the resolution Foraker offered, directing the secretary of the treasury to report expenditures of the $3,000,000 from which the $15,000 was paid the detectives.

NORTHWEST IN FEAR.

Seattle, Jan. 12.—Communications with Alaska were severed by last night's earthquake. Mount Baker is threatening eruption. Residents of the whole northwestern section are panic-stricken. Three shocks were felt through the mountains for a thousand miles.

Frisco Plan Adopted

Rome, Jan. 12.—The government announced it will follow the San Francisco plan of relief work, as outlined by Mayor Taylor in the London press. Different departments will be organized at Reggio and Messina to have charge of the finance, rebuilding hospitals, etc. Grissom returned from the stricken region and reported that the archbishops told him the aid given by America shows that Italy must rely on that country for her greatest help. Grissom informed Archbishop Ireland, who promised to do everything possible. The Italian government, however, is frowning on outside help as a reflection on the nation's ability to care for the sufferers.

Had Man Lynched.

Shreveport, La., Jan. 12.—Judith, known as a "bad negro," was lynched at Marthville. He was arrested as a counterfeiter. A mob stormed the jail and lynched him. Gilbert lived in a cabin which was a perfect arsenal. He had terrorized the community for years.

Wheeler Funeral

The funeral of Mr. Obie Wheeler will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Fountain Avenue Methodist church. The pallbearers will be: Messrs. Joseph Mattison, Jr., Joe Goodman, Frank Hinkle, Lester Yates, Joe Fisher, Jim Davis. The burial will be at Oak Grove cemetery.

Second Explosion

Wetch, W. Va., Jan. 12.—The second explosion within two weeks occurred at Lick Branch colliery. It is reported 150 men were entombed in the mine, where 50 were killed before. It occurred just after the men started working. The mine is burning so fiercely that rescue work is impossible. It is feared all have perished.

River Thieves Busy

Sneak thieves are at work along the river front. For several months the owners of small craft have missed small pieces of machinery and most anything that was left in the boats over night. It seems as though some persons have been making nightly visits to all the launches moored at the Paducah port and taking everything lying loose in the boats. Last Saturday night several launches, moored at the mouth of Island Creek, were visited and about 75 gallons of gasoline stolen. The launch of Mr. Bud Quarles lost about 30 gallons and the launches belonging to Mr. Charles Graham and Mr. Boh Waltham about 15 gallons each. Several other boats lost gasoline.

CALLOWAY FIGHT OVER CHAIRMAN IS HEARD TODAY

Democrats from Calloway county interested in the settlement of the dispute over Democratic county chairmanship were in Paducah today.

Judge W. A. Berry, state central committee man, is hearing the case this afternoon and will decide who was elected chairman according to the primary rules. John H. Keys and N. L. Christman are the two Democrats contending for the place. The dispute over the election of the county chairman arose when the election was called by J. H. Coleman, and it was claimed that five precinct committeemen failed to have their certificates signed by the secretary. The 14 committeemen divided on the eligibility of the five to serve and N. L. Christman was elected by one faction, and John H. Keys by the second faction.

The fight from Murray at the meeting were: State Senator Conn Linn, John G. Holland, J. H. Coleman, Zeb A. Stewart, L. L. Harnett, L. Y. Woodruff, O. J. Jennings, Judge T. P. Cook, N. L. Christman and John H. Keys.

COUNTY WILL PAY TUITION AND NOT BUILD ANY SCHOOL

If Fiscal Court Has Way to Prevent Extra Tax on Property Owners.

Would Cost $20,000 to Start High School.

COUNTY JUDGE HAS OPINION

Any effort of the county school board to compel the fiscal court to raise the county taxes in order to provide for a county high school out in the country will be resisted, from indications. It is not at all certain that the trustees are entirely in favor of going to the expense, but some of them have expressed themselves that way without considering the matter extensively.

County Judge Lightfoot is opposed to it and will make arrangements with the board for the admission of rural school graduates.

"I hope the people will study this question seriously," said Judge Lightfoot. "It would cost us $15,000 for the building. It would cost us $5,000 a year, anyway, to maintain such a high school as the statute contemplates. There is $20,000 the first year. That is as much as our roads cost us in a year. It would add to the county tax rate materially, and it would be a continuous growing expense."

"That would be all right if there were many pupils, but at best there will be not more than half a dozen outside the immediate vicinity of the school. A farmer is not going to send his children across the county to attend school in the country. If the pupils should desire to board near the school they could better come to Paducah, where they will have to make many trips, anyhow, during the school year."

"The suggestion in The Sun that the county make arrangements with the city schools for the pupils is an excellent one. The county could better afford to pay tuition for every pupil of the rural schools who desires to enter the city schools, than to expend $15,000 on the building and $5,000 on top of that every year. The pupils will have better advantages every way in Paducah. To spend that amount of money establishing a county high school in one section of the county, would be wasting funds that better could be expended for something else, or saved by the taxpayers. The situation here is not similar to that in counties, where they have not a splendid school system like this city."

BASKET BALL TEAM

PICKED OUT BY HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS TODAY.

To Represent Blue and White in Contest With McLean College Team.

The first girls' team of the high school was picked this morning to represent the blue and white against the college girls of the McLean college of Hopkinsville, January 29. All of the girls played basketball last year, and from now on will practice regularly for the game. The team will be composed of Miss Katherine Brock, center; Misses Rebecca Smith, and Martha Cope, forwards; and Misses Margaret Carnagey and Ruth McChesney, guards. The captain of the team has not been selected.

The basketball season for the girls will open with the first game in Hopkinsville against McLean college. The football team of McLean college held the Paducah boys to a tie game last autumn, but the high school girls are confident of walking off with the honors. A second team will be organized among the girls so that the first team will have plenty of practice.

RAILROAD MAN ENLISTS FOR COAST ARTILLERY.

One man was enlisted at the local recruiting station in charge of Sergeant C. A. Hlake, for the coast artillery, by Captain William L. Reed, of Evansville. Mr. Charles E. Pigg, of Paducah, formerly a railroad man, was enlisted for the coast artillery and he will leave at 6:15 o'clock this afternoon for Jefferson barracks, at St. Louis. Captain Reed came here from Cairo and went on to Evansville at noon today.

News of Theatres

"Fifty Miles From Boston." Messrs. Cohan and Harris will present George M. Cohan's successful musical play, "Fifty Miles From Boston," at the Kentucky tonight. With its scene laid in the little village of Brookfield, the action of the story has been written around the doings of a typical small town with a uniquely realistic portrayal of the characters that live in such places. There is the general storekeeper, whose son, a Harvard baseball hero, also loves the postmistress. Then there is her weak brother, who robs the postoffice and gets everybody into trouble. Town gossip and neighborhood quarrels keep all those concerned in hot water, and as the story moves forward a picture with photographic minuteness is given of small town life in its every phase. Messrs. Cohan and Harris have, it is said, provided an unusually strong company to fill the different parts, and likewise a large and well selected chorus. The production is ample to the extent of lavishness. Among the song hits are "Waltz With Me," "Jack and Jill," "Harrigan," "The Boys Who Fight the Flames," "Ain't It Awful," "My Small Town Gal." Included among those who have been engaged are: Douglas Stevenson, Frank Bauman, Walter P. Richardson, John Sparks, George Dodson, Nat E. Bloom, Frank Darlen, May Maurice, Louise Carver, Charlotte Gray and Catherine Perry.

News has reached Washington that a hunting permit has been issued to the president. Representatives looked at each other fearfully. "Wonder if it mentioned an open season for congressmen?" they asked each other, apprehension in each face. —Philadelphia Ledger.

HORRIBLE DEATH OF CARMICHAEL

Preacher Who Murdered Man Confesses All.

Dies Languishing Death From Exposure to Cold Though Throat Is Cut.

TWO HEART-BROKEN WOMEN.

Carthage, Ill., Jan. 12.—Rev. John H. Carmichael, who last Tuesday night in the little Methodist church at Rattle Run, Mich., killed Gideon Browning, a carpenter, and then committed suicide here today, in a long written confession which was found in his suit case, told in detail the story of the killing of Browning; how he had fallen a victim to Browning's hypnotic power, and meeting him in the church Tuesday night was compelled to obey every command; how finally when Browning attacked him with knives, he (Carmichael) defended himself with a hatchet. After finishing his victim with a hatchet, he said, the red hot stove in the church room suggested itself as the best method of disposing of the body. Before putting the body in the stove however, he exchanged some of the dead man's clothing for his own which had become bespattered with blood.

Death Was Horrible. Carmichael's death was almost as horrible as that of his victim. When he arrived at the boarding house he gave the name of John Elder and said he was a wood worker and had come here to start a factory, no suspicion was attached to his presence. He went to a Catholic priest and declaring he himself was a Catholic asked the influence of the members of the church in helping him in his business. Going about town and in and out of the boarding house he gave no indications of brooding over the murder, although all this time he must have thought about it for the written confession had been prepared and was concealed among his belongings in his room.

Decided to Leave. Although so far as he knew he was still beyond the reach of the detectives, the crisis came when about 7:30 he informed Miss Hughes that as no satisfactory site for his factory could be found here, he intended going to Bowen, Ill. He then went into the back yard. As he delayed coming back and had not returned at train time to get his suit case, the landlady instituted a search. A passing teamster was halted and he with others joined the searchers. But Carmichael had already, by his own hand, so far as he was able, explained his crime.

Had Cut His Throat. In an old wooden shed back of the house he had cut his throat with a pocket knife. The dying man was carried into the house but he never recovered consciousness. Every effort was made to revive him but he died at 1 o'clock. His clothing and suit case were searched and two letters were found, one addressed to his wife at Rattle Run, which was sealed and remains unopened. The other was a confession which was addressed to the sheriff at Port Huron, Mich. Carmichael arrived here over the Burlington road. On inquiry for a boarding house he was directed to that managed by Miss Hughes. He appeared in a happy frame of mind and discussed freely with every one his plans for coming here and starting a factory. Going carefully about town he inspected all business places. His keen interest in Carthage aroused interest in his project. Even up to the moment when he suddenly said he had to leave town there was no token of any mental perplexity that he might have been suffering.

Owner Held Inquest. At an inquest the coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide. Carmichael's suit case arrived here Saturday morning from Burlington, having been redchecked from Donelson, Iowa. This indicates that Carmichael had gone through Burlington to Donelson and thence returned to Burlington Friday, allowing his suit case to follow him. It is thus probable that the minister left Chicago Wednesday afternoon, or that night, arriving here Wednesday evening or Thursday, and was going on to Donelson. It is thought he was originally bound for Kansas City, but changed his mind. The sheriff decided to open Carmichael's letter to his wife and found a duplicate of the confession.

Dr. Blonder, who attended Carmichael, said death was caused by exposure to the cold and that the wound in the throat was not sufficient to cause death. Judging from the time he left the house to the time he was found in the shed, it would appear that Carmichael might have been lying in the bitter cold, with his throat cut, for over two hours.

Hypnotic Influence. Kookuk, Ia., Jan. 12.—John H. Carmichael, murderer of half-witted Gideon Browning at Rattle Run, Mich., last Tuesday, died at the county hospital at Carthage, Ill., after cutting his throat. He left a confession addressed to Sheriff Waggoner at Port Huron, Mich.

Declares His Guilt. In the opening sentence he declares he is guilty and as a reason for the crime says "the man had such a hypnotic influence over me

Weak Little Boys

may become fine strong men. Some of the strong men of to-day were sickly boys years ago. Many of them received at their mother's knee. This had a power in it that changed them from weak, delicate boys into strong, robust boys. It has the same power to-day. Boys and girls who are pale and weak get food and energy out of Scott's Emulsion. It makes children grow.

Scott's Emulsion

that something had to be done." The confession recites several instances of the alleged hypnotic influence of Browning over him and the preacher's inability to resist, though he says he tried to do so.

Carmichael alleges that under this hypnotic influence he accompanied Browning to Port Huron, where, acting under the spell, he alleges, he purchased a hatchet. Afterwards they rode together to South Park, where Browning got out of the buggy to take a car, taking the hatchet with him.

Lured Minister to Church. Later, Carmichael says, Browning arranged with him about a wedding and arranged to meet the preacher at Port Huron. When he met Browning on the road he was alone and in explanation said the others would come later. He and Browning went to the church where they built a fire in the stove. Carmichael kept on the lookout for others of the expected party until Browning laughed and told him there was to be no wedding, and that he made the arrangement just for fun and that he would show what he could do.

Obedient Commands. Carmichael then goes on and tells how Browning ordered him to raise and lower his hands and that he obeyed, being unable to resist. He saw Browning holding a weapon of some kind, he says, and grabbed for it. It was the hatchet purchased at Port Huron. The confession continued:

"I asked what he meant to do with that. He said 'I'll show you,' and from his overcoat pocket he drew out a knife, one in each hand, and came near me, striking with both hands, while I backed across the church, down the side aisle and across the front, but I did not dare turn about to open the front door.

Desperate Struggle. "Then I threw the hatchet and struck him and he fell. I then turned to open the door when he grabbed me by the legs and threw me down where my hands came upon the hatchet. There was a desperate struggle in which I used the hatchet until he laid quiet and still. I cannot tell all that happened after that, as I was wild to dispose of the body. I was in a horrible terror, so I began pulling off his garments that I might drag the body away somewhere and hide it. Then my eyes fell upon one of those knives, I flew into a rage and began to cut with it when he woke up and grabbed me again.

Killed Browning. "This time I used the hatchet until I was sure he was dead. Then I saw the fire was not enough to make the stove pipe red nearly to the elbow, so I grabbed him by the feet and dragged him down there and cut him to pieces, putting in each part as it was dismembered, then I began to put the garments into the front stove when I remembered it had a poor draft and the things might not burn. Then I saw that my clothing was torn and bloody, while some of his were yet whole and I exchanged and then took all but a few of mine and piled them in along with the body.

Went to Chicago. "I then went up nearly to Tunnel Station, where I turned my rig about and started it on the back track. My big coat hid my torn and bloody garments until I got to Chicago where I purchased others. I am tired of trying to hide, though I have succeeded in eluding the detectives so far. If you get this while I am yet alive come and get me. I shall not be far from Carthage, Illinois.

"J. H. CARMICHAEL."

Two Heartbroken Women. Adair, Mich., Jan. 12.—There are two crushed, heart-broken women in this sensation-torn little village today. They are Mrs. John H. Carmichael, the widow of the preacher-murderer who committed suicide in Carthage, Ill., and Mrs. Browning the mother of Gideon Browning, the victim of Carmichael's murderous mania.

Mrs. Carmichael, harrowed for six days by forebodings and uncertainty was told soon after noon that her husband had been found, and before she had fairly grasped this news she was told that he had died from self-inflicted wounds.

The aged Mrs. Browning, sick at the home of her son-in-law here, heard the news of Carmichael's death, and his strange confession—death knell of any hope that the identification of the murdered man as her son was incorrect. Not only Adair village, but the entire countryside for twenty miles around, is wild with excitement today over today's development in the Rattle Run murder mystery.

Mrs. Carmichael Sick in Bed. Mrs. Carmichael is sick in bed today at her home. The shock of today's news after the strain she has endured since the crime was discovered was more than she could bear and for the first time she broke down. But she is still firm in the belief that her husband was insane when he killed Browning. "I cannot imagine anything now, more than before, that would lead my husband to do such a thing. He was insane. I remember so well now. Just two weeks before the affair I remember of his complaints about trouble with his head. At that time he said he felt as if he were going crazy; that he was going to have more trouble. That, I believe brought on his insanity."

The good die young, but a bad man is necessarily bad because he has no occasion to die.

SERIOUS BUSINESS

IS FALSE ALARM OF FIRE, THINK COMMISSIONERS.

Patrolman, Who "Jeshed" on Subject
Loses Ten Days—Uniforms
Must Be Worn.

"Jeshing" did not suit the board of police and fire commissioners last night when they got to investigate the charges of turning in a false alarm preferred against Patrolman W. F. Owen. For the fun the commissioners gave Patrolman Owen a layoff of ten days without pay, and gave strict orders that, if now in practice, that the custom of patrolmen calling up other policemen and having social chats must cease while on duty. In other words the commissioners decided that social calls should be paid when not working.

Last Friday night Patrolman Owen called up Patrolman E. H. Morris, who was at Fifth and Norton streets, and began "jeshing" about a supposed fire at Third and Elizabeth streets. Patrolman Morris quickly gave an alarm to the fire department, and company Nos. 2 and 4 made the run. Fire Chief Wood made an investigation, and accused Patrolman Owen of turning in the alarm. Patrolman Owen did not deny the charge, but explained that he was "only jeshing."

The commissioners issued orders to Chief James Collins to see that all of the patrolmen are supplied with uniforms. Also the patrolmen were instructed to keep a neat appearance while on duty.

COTTON STEADY

DEMAND FOR COTTON WAS EXCELLENT AT HIGH PRICES.

Memphis 1/2 Cent Higher on the Week—Large Sales at Liverpool—Receipts Lighter.

Memphis Jan. 12—Prices closed the week Saturday's session with losses of 1 and 2 points in active contracts. The tone was steady in the face of bulls realizing for profits over the Sunday holiday and following the glooming report. The majority of the trade went over into the new week hopeful and confident of higher prices, whatever may be the immediate course of the market.

The glooming report showed there was gained in January 1, 12,470,000 bales of cotton, and naturally the chief fact of the day. It showed a decrease in the rate of spinning from the two weeks preceding December 13, and on this basis bulls based justification of their oft-repeated claim that a perpendicular drop in the spinning would soon be witnessed, but many in the trade were not willing to concede that the decline in the rate of spinning was at all perpendicular, since from December 13 to January 1 there was gained 568,000 bales, which was only 100,000 less than during last season, when the spinning during this period was the heaviest on record. There are strong probabilities that during the coming week claims for a crop in excess of 15,500,000 bales will be pushed with some vigor. On the face of the returns they are not unreasonable.

Liverpool was sharply higher, closing 5 1/2 points sterling advanced, which was all an unexpected rise, but New York failed to measure up to this, and as a result Liverpool is due 4 points decline Monday. The large spinners' takings and the small increase in the visible supply were probably the factors in this advance. The demand for goods from China is better in both American and English markets and this is always a factor with the English mints which will easily get bullish on an expanding trade.

Southern spots markets were without feature as is usual on Saturdays. In Memphis sales were 1,500 bales with quotations unchanged.

When the spinning report is looked at in detail it is seen that the heaviest spinning during the last two weeks in December was in Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Mississippi. It seems evident, therefore, that the Oklahoma and West Texas crop is late and that in the lowlands of the other two states there was considerable late picked cotton. In South Carolina only 46,000 bales were ginned in the time and in Alabama 41,000 bales. The returns for the entire eastern district were light, but it seems with Georgia already reported 1,934,000 bales that the crop might easily exceed 2,000,000 bales for the state and establish a record.

Daily Thought.

Make yourself necessary to the world and the world will give you bread.—Emerson.

William H. Taft was elected president yesterday, as predicted in The Sun.

The next census should show a healthy growth of population in Jeffersonville and New Albany, Ind.

The end of the first year of Governor Wilson's and Treasurer Ed Farley's administration shows a balance of $786,185.65. Pretty good, considering there was nothing when they went in that was not represented by outstanding warrants.

The senate called on President Roosevelt for facts about any members secured by the secret service department. He complied by sending the facts about Senator Tillman. The latter admitted the facts, but denied that they constituted guilt of anything.

After six years of forbearance, congressmen who have been nursing their wrath under the presidential god, have plucked up courage to introduce a resolution not to receive and file such presidential communications as do not please them, and they will have two million copies of the debate on the resolution published. Vengeance!

The United States Steel corporation at the beginning of the panic informed the attorney general that in order to avert a financial catastrophe it would purchase the Tennessee Coal &amp; Iron company, if such a purchase was not illegal. The attorney general advised that it would not be. Now congress is attempting by hushendo to create the impression that the president winked at an unlawful merger.

THE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL.

The purpose of a county high school is twofold: to afford an opportunity for country boys and girls to study the higher branches free; and to improve the condition of the common schools. The idea was to establish in every county in Kentucky a first class, standard high school, not crowding the rural common schools as they now exist, but compelling the improvement of the common schools, in order that they might become preparatory to the high schools.

When the legislature enacted the law, providing for a county high school, it significantly added, that if satisfactory arrangements could be made with city school systems for the attendance of pupils from the county graded schools, no high school need be built. Did the members of the McCracken county school board ever consider that, perhaps, the author of the measure had in mind the varying conditions of Kentucky counties? There are counties in this state in which there is no town of any consequence, and in which there is in existence no such thing as a city high school. In order to secure a high school in such counties the counties themselves must build them.

In other counties, like McCracken, the county authorities have never made arrangements with the city school systems to secure their benefits to the children of the county. Consequently, the rural schools of all counties are not up to the standard. They can't be until they are made to lead up to something definite. County school boards were formed and this law enacted, not for the purpose of compelling the tax payers of McCracken county, who already have a good high school, to spend $20,000 more erecting another high school, but compelling the county authorities to afford the country boys and girls an opportunity to attend that high school free of cost.

The author of that measure never contemplated the erection of a county high school in McCracken until so many boys and girls in the county desire a high school education, one additional becomes absolutely necessary.

The first thing for our county board of education to do is to improve the rural system, so that it becomes preparatory for a high school, and any child graduating from the rural school is prepared to enter a high school. They can't establish a high school and then lower the requirements to suit the convenience of the rural grades. Not very many pupils will be ready to enter a high school for some years. If the county school board would make arrangements to pay the tuition of pupils in the high school and settle upon some plan of examination for admission, and then build up the rural school system to conform to high school requirements, they would be in shape to establish another high school, when there is a demand for it.

A high school in one part of the county wouldn't be any nearer to a child in another part of the county, than it would be in Paducah. That is as broad as it is long. One enthusiastic, but misguided friend of the high school, deplored the lack of educational facilities outside the "municipal centers," and suggested that the high school would now be brought "to the country boy's door." It will not be peddled around like fish or operated on a rural route. It will be erected on a foundation in one part of the county, and there it will remain with more teachers than pupils for a long while, we fear.

We can understand the feeling of the school trustees. When a man has an office, he likes to have some thing under him; and a high school probably appeals to the trustees sentimentally. Then, too, there would be some good jobs to give away, and that appeals to some men; and some supplies to buy. We understand that some of the trustees are not so heartily in favor of jumping into the high school business in a hurry. We commend their caution, and suggest that this educational awakening of Kentucky calls for thinking as well as the reckless scattering of money around where it won't do any good.

SOME STORIES AROUND TOWN.

The man in public office is called upon to answer many questions by the citizens. In fact he is regarded as something of a target for any question that may arise from a family dispute to the grave question of finding an affinity. County Judge R. T. Lightfoot is no exception, and the county judge tells the story of a bashful young fellow, who was considering the advisability of taking a wife unto himself. Some time ago the judge was seated in his office reading and smoking when the door was softly opened. Glancing up from his paper the judge saw a young man standing in the door. Bidding him to walk right in the conversation began.

"Judge, I would like to talk with you in private," began the young fellow.

Judge Lightfoot barred the door, for something in the tremor of the voice revealed to him that the interplay would be important. "All right, sir," said the judge, as he resumed his seat.

"Judge, I have always considered you a good friend of our family," started off the young fellow, seeming to forget his fright temporarily, "and I want you to advise me, for I believe in you. Now, the truth is that I want to get married to a mighty nice girl, but Judge I haven't managed to save up but about $300 and I don't know whether I can make out on that or not."

With a vigorous puff at his cigar Judge Lightfoot's face brightened and he began: "Get married at once, young man, and don't let that bother you for a minute. My advice is to get married if you want to despite the circumstances. Why, sir, when I was married I was $1,800 in debt—"

The young man's eyes sparkled, and his air castles had almost turned into material ones.

"But now," continued Judge Lightfoot, "I am $18,000 in debt."

The enthusiasm never left the young man, and after extending thanks, rushed out of the office and was married that afternoon.

A. H. CARDIN WANTS

It is said, in the hands of the state, because the authorities are desirous of punishing the men who instigate the crimes and will manage to keep night riding alive in spite of the harassment of the active raiders.

That there are lawyers behind the night rider organization is evident. It has been proven to a moral certainty that before a single night rider out-race was committed the jury wheel in more than one county was stuffed with the names of night riders, and more than one court has shown its bias, especially in the matter of choosing jury commissioners in the face of protests and recommendations of the law and order element.

An amusing feature of the court's relations to the situation, was the requests made on Governor Wilson to appoint a certain judge to the state board of control, so that the governor might appoint a judge in his place, who was not in sympathy with the night riders.

Not only have the juries been taken care of, but every night rider before going on a raid provides himself with an alibi. These are not thought up after they are arrested or sued, but are genuinely part of the preparation for a raid. No night rider has ever resisted arrest or shown contempt for the state's authorities once face to face with it. Their remarkable precision is well known, and a certain building in the Lamasco section of Lyon county is famous for having been a drill hall. It was there the soldiers picked up some discarded Masonic aprons and taking them to headquarters to ascertain if they were night rider regalia, were charged by night rider correspondents with having stolen Masonic jewels.

It is claimed that there is a suit about to be sprung that will go beyond any of these already filed, and will bring the whole Tennessee and Kentucky conspiracy into question, with men high in authority as defendants. The success of the move depends entirely on the competency of testimony, which the plaintiffs will endeavor to introduce relative to the general conspiracy.

Sophy of Kravonia.

"I hear something," said Peter Vassil.

"Just this morning—this one splendid morning—I agree with you," laughed Mrs. "Not even the mark shall change my mind? Come, you love the mark—the red star—don't you?"

"Well, yes," said Sophy, with a little confidential nod and smile.

"I hear something," said Peter Vassil, with his hand to his ear.

Sophy turned to him, smiling. "What do you hear, Peter?"

He gave a sudden start of recollection. "Ah, has that anything to do with M. Zerkovitch?"

"M. Zerkovitch?" broke from them both.

"He's been here. He's ridden at a gallop on to Volsen to find the prince."

He added briefly all there was to add, his hand at his ear all the time.

"Hunt! What looks like news," said Mrs. "What can it be?"

"He didn't stop even to tell Marie! It must be urgent."

They looked at one another's faces.

"Can there be—be anything wrong in Slavina?"

"You mean the troops?"

"I had thought of that."

"I can think of nothing but that. If it were anything from the palace it would come by a royal courier sooner than by any other hand."

"I can hear plainly now," said Peter Vassil. "Listen!"

They obeyed him, but their ears were not so well trained. A dull, indefinite sound was all they could distinguish.

"Horses—a number of them. Mounted men! It must be, the hoofs are so regular. Cavalry!"

"It's the prince coming back from Volsen!" cried Sophy.

"No; it's from the other direction, and besides, there are too many for that."

Mounted men on the Slavna road, and too many to be the prince's guard!

"What can it be?" asked Sophy in a low voice.

"I don't know. Zerkovitch's arrival must be connected with the same thing. I think."

"There! There are their shadows coming over the rise of the hill!" cried Peter Vassil.

The next moment showed the company. They rode in fours, with banners on the flanks. The officer in command was behind. The three on the cauceway could not see him yet. They were hushers of the king's guard, the best regiment in the army. The prince of Slavina had made them good soldiers. They hated him for it. But Slavina was their homeland. On their came. In their blue tunics and silver braids they made a brave show in the sunshine.

The three watched now without word or motion. The sudden sight held them spellbound. Not one of them thought of sending to warn the prince. If they had the thought, would have been useless unless it had chimed in with Mistleth's will. Twenty men could have been on them before there was time to saddle a horse. If the expedition was a hostile one the castle was caught napping in very truth!

Sophy stood forward a pace in front of her companions. Her hand rested on the little revolver which monsieur had given her.

On came the company. The foremost file reached within twenty yards of the cauceway. There they halted. Half of them dismounted, each man as he did so, turning his horse to his next fellow. Half of the fifty thus left mounted repeated this operation, leaving the remaining twenty-five in charge of all the horses. The seventy-five took position, four deep, on the road. They separated, lying either side.

The figure of their commander now appeared. He rode to the foot of the cauceway, then dismounted and gave his horse to the sergeant who attended him. His men followed and drew up in the road, blocking the approach to the castle. Big Mistleth began to ascend the cauceway, a broad smile on his face. It was a great moment for Captain Hercules—the day of revenge for which he had waited in forced patience and discreet inactivity. It was a critical day also in view of the instructions he had. To do him justice, he was not afraid.

Sophy saw and knew. This must have been the news that Zerkovitch carried, that he had galloped on to tell the prince in Volsen. Some event—some unknown and untoward turn of fortune—had loosed Mistleth on them! That was all she had time to realize before Mistleth smiled her and spoke.

"I have the honor of addressing the Baroness Dobravn."

"You know me well, I think, Captain Mistleth, and I know you."

"Our journey together will be all the pleasantest for that."

"Your business with me, please?"

"I have it in command from his majesty to escort you to Slavina—to the palace and into his presence. The king himself will then acquaint you with his wishes."

"You're a strange messenger to send."

"That's a point to put to my superior officer, Colonel Stafaltz, who sent me, Baroness."

Sophy pointed to his men. "You ride strongly supported?"

"Again the colonel's orders, Baroness. I confess the precautions seemed to me excessive, I had no doubt you would willingly obey his majesty's commands. Here, by the way, is the written order." He produced the order the king had signed before his death.

Sophy had been thinking. Neither her courage nor her cunning forsook her. She waved the document away. "I can take your word, captain? You're making no mistake today? I really am Baroness Dobravn—not somebody else with whom you have a feud?" She laughed at him gayly and went on: "Well, I'm ready. I'm dressed for a ride, and I'll ride with you immediately. In two minutes we'll be off." She saw a groom in the road starting at the troopers and called to him to bring her a horse.

This prompt obedience by no means suited Mistleth's look. It forced him either to show his hand or to ride off with Sophy, leaving the prince to his devices, and, in a little while, to his revenge.

"I mustn't hurry you. You have some preparations?"

"None," said Sophy. Her horse was led out into the road.

"You'll at least desire to acquaint his royal highness?"

"Not at all necessary. Baron von Holbrandt can do that later on."

Mistleth looked puzzled. Sophy smiled. Her intuition had been right. The attack on her was a feint, her arrest a blind. The prince was the real object of the move. She stepped down toward Mistleth.

"I see my horse is ready. We can start at once, captain," she said.

"I'm instructed to express to the prince regret that it should be necessary."

"The regret will be conveyed to him. Come, captain!"

But Mistleth barred her way.

"His royal highness is in the castle!" he asked. His voice grew angry now. He feared the great silence had failed. He saw that Sophy played with him. How would he and his escort look riding back to Slavina with nothing to show for their journey save the capture of one unresisting woman—a woman whom they dared not harm while the prince remained free and might become all powerful!

"If he had been you'd have known it by now, I think," smiled Sophy. "No, the prince isn't at the castle."

"I'll see that for myself!" Mistleth cried, taking a step forward.

With a low laugh Sophy drew aside, passed him and ran down the cauceway. In an instant she darted between the ranks of Mistleth's men and reached her horse. The groom mounted her. She looked up to Mistleth and called to him gayly:

"Now for Slavna, captain! And hurry or you'll be left behind!"

Her wit was too quick for him. Max von Holbrandt burst out laughing. Peter Vassil grinned.

"What are you waiting for, captain?" asked Max. "Your prisoner's only too anxious to go with you, you see?"

"I'll search the castle first!" he cried in a rage, which made him forget his part.

Peter Vassil sprang forward and harried the way. Mistleth raised his ugly arm, but Sophy's voice rang out gayly:

"Nonsense, Peter! There's nothing to conceal. Let the captain pass."

Her words stopped Mistleth. He feared a trap. Max saw it and mocked him. "Don't be afraid, captain. Take fifty men in with you. The garrison consists of a lady in bed, an old man and five female servants."

Sophy heard and laughed. Even the troopers began to laugh now. Mistleth stood on the top of the cauceway, irresolute, baffled, furious.

But behind his stupidity lay the cunning subtlety of Stafaltz, the ingenious bit of devilry. Mistleth's name averted where his brain could not. For the moment the prince made little of the crown which had become his. When he heard Zerkovitch's news his overpowering thought was that the woman he loved might be exposed to the power and the insults of Mistleth. Sophy was playing a skillful game for him, but he did not know it.

"I hear something," said Peter Vassil, whispering to Max von Holbrandt.

Yes, there was the galloping of horses on the Volsen road!

Colonel Stafaltz had not miscalculated.

Now Mistleth heard the sound. His heavy face brightened. He ran down the cauceway loudly ordering his men to mount. He was no longer at a loss. He had his cue now—the cue Stafaltz had given him.

The day of the slim woman's triumph has arrived. "The thinner one is the more stylish," say the dress-makers.

This would have been sad news for the fat woman a year ago. She would have had to try dieting or exercise. Nowadays, however, the woman who is too fat for the styles goes to a druggist and gets a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, one of which she takes after each meal and at bedtime and so reduces her superfluous flesh quickly.

These tablets, being made in accordance with the famous prescription, are perfectly harmless, and they are, also, the most economical preparation a person can buy, for they cost only 75 cents a large case, one of which is frequently enough to start a person to losing fat at the rate of 12 to 14 ounces a day. The amendment was then referred to the committee on appropriations.

The Hales Trial.

Flushing, L. I., Jan. 12.—McIntyre, Hales' senior counsel, began summing up for the defense. McIntyre's speech was full of invective against White and Dayton, assistant prosecutors. He declared the conspiracy existed among members of the yacht club to convict Hales. He said White and Dayton are taking blood money. He insisted the shooting was the act of a madman, Peter's mind gave way under the confession of his wife. He even doubted the paternity of the Hales children. Thorn obeyed nature. He defended his brother from an infuriated mob, and committed no crime.

Notice.

All members of Magnolia Grove are requested to meet Tuesday evening with Olive camp to meet Mr. J. W. Brewer, state manager, of Louisville, Ky.

Three Paducah citizens had rather a strenuous voyage from Dog Island, two miles above Smithland, to Paducah Sunday evening. The party went out Sunday morning on a pleasure trip up the Ohio river in a gasoline launch and on their return the party encountered the storm which began to blow, rain and sleet late Sunday afternoon. The occupants of the little craft were Mr. Charles Abbott, Dr. P. H. Stewart and Mr. Joseph Grogan, owner of the launch. The boat was tossed about on the waves and the water dashed in on the men.

The great trouble was in keeping the engine working. Several times the three half-frozen men had to land along the mud bank and repair broken belts and work with the engine. But finally after about six hours of anxiety the little craft arrived in port at 12:30 o'clock Monday morning. A hot bath and a good night's rest put the survivors of the perilous voyage in good condition again.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is in reality an internal inflammation—a diseased condition of the blood cells which supply the nourishment and strength necessary to sustain our bodies. Arteries, an irritating, inflammatory accumulation, gets into the circulation because of physical irregularities, and then instead of nourishing and invigorating the body, the blood irritates and inflames the different nerves, tissues, muscles and joints, because of its impure, acid condition. The pains and aches and other disagreeable and dangerous symptoms of Rheumatism can never be permanently cured until every particle of the cause is driven from the blood. S. S. S. does this because it is a perfect blood purifier. It goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, purifies and cleanses the circulation, invigorates the blood, and completely drives Rheumatism from the system. Plasters, liniments, soothing lotions, etc., may be used for the temporary relief and comfort they bring, but a cure cannot be effected until S. S. S. has removed the cause. It frees the blood of every impurity and makes it a rich, health sustaining fluid, to bring permanent relief and comfort to those who suffer with Rheumatism. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

A GOOD SHORT STORY FOR READERS OF THE SUN

By O. HENRY.

Copyright, 1908, by the E. S. McClure Co. It is well that hay fever and colds do not obtain in the healthful vicinity of Cactus City, Tex., for the dry goods emporium of Navarro & Platt, situated there, is not to be sneezed at.

Twenty thousand people in Cactus City scatter their silver coin with liberal hands for the things that their hearts desire. The bulk of this semi-precious metal goes to Navarro & Platt. Their huge brick building covers enough ground to graze a dozen head of sheep. You can lay them in a rattlesnake skin necktie, an automobile or an eighty-five dollar latest style lady's tan coat in twenty different shades. Navarro & Platt first introduced people west of the Colorado river. They had been ranchmen with business heads, who saw that the world did not necessarily have to cease its revolutions after free grass went out.

Every spring Navarro, senior partner, fifty-five, half Spanish, cosmopolitan, alert, polished, had "come out" to New York to buy goods. This year he shied at taking up the long trail. He was undoubtedly growing older, and he looked at his watch several times a day before the hour came for his sleigh.

"John," he said to his junior partner, "you shall go on this year to buy the goods."

Platt looked tired. "I'm told," said he, "that New York is a plumb dead town, but I'll go. I can take a whirl in San Antonio for a few days on my way and have some fun."

Two weeks later a man in a Texas full dress suit—black frock coat, broad brimmed soft white hat and lay down collar three-quarters of an inch high, with black, wrought iron necktie—entered the wholesale cloak and suit establishment of Zizbaum & Son on lower Broadway.

Old Zizbaum had the eye of an asprey, the memory of an elephant and a mind that unfolded from him in three movements like the puzzle of the carpenter's rule. He rolled to the front like a brunette polar bear and shook Platt's hand.

"And how is the good Mr. Navarro in Texas?" he said. "The trip was too long for him this year, so? We welcome Mr. Platt instead."

"A bullseye," said Platt, "and I'll give forty acres of ungrazed Texas country land to know how you did it." "I knew," grinned Zizbaum, "just as I know that the rainfall in El Paso for the year was 28.5 inches, or an increase of fifteen inches, and that therefore Navarro & Platt will buy a $15,000 stock of suits this spring instead of $10,000, as in a dry year. But that will be tomorrow. There is first a cigar in my private office that will remove from your mouth the taste of the ones you smuggle across the Rio Grande and like because they are smuggled."

It was late in the afternoon and business for the day had ended. Zizbaum left Platt with a half smoked cigar and came out of the private office to see who was arranging his diamond scarf pin before a mirror, ready to leave.

"Abe," he said, "you will have to take Mr. Platt around tonight and show him things. They are customers for tea years. Mr. Navarro and I played chess every moment of spare time when he came. That is good, but Mr. Platt is a young man, and this is his first visit to New York. He should amuse easily."

"All right," said Abe, screwing the guard lightly on his pin. "I'll take him on. After he's seen the Flatiron and the head waiter at the Hotel Astor and heard the phonograph play 'Under the Old Apple Tree' I'll be half past 10, and Mr. Texas will be ready to roll up in his blanket. I've got a supper engagement at 11:30, but he'll be all to the Mrs. Winslow before then."

The next morning at 10 Platt walked into the store ready to do business. He had a bunch of hysteresis pinned on his lapel. Zizbaum himself waited on him. Navarro & Platt were good customers and never failed to take their discount for cash.

"And what did you think of our little town?" asked Zizbaum, with the fatuous smile of the Manhattanite. "I shouldn't care to live in it," said the Texan. "Your son and I knuckled around quite a bit last night. You've got good water, but Cactus City is better lit up."

"We've got a few lights on Broadway, don't you think, Mr. Platt?" "And a good many shadows," said Platt. "I think I like your horses best. I haven't seen a crowbait since I've been in town."

Zizbaum led him upstairs to show the samples of suits.

"Ask Miss Asher to come," he said to a clerk.

Miss Asher came, and Platt of Navarro & Platt felt for the first time the wonderful bright light of romance and glory descend upon him. He stood still as a granite cliff above the Canyon of the Colorado, with his wide open eyes fixed upon her. She noticed his look and flushed a little, which was contrary to her custom.

Miss Asher was the crack model of Zizbaum & Son. She was of the blond type known as "medium." Her measurements even went the required 35-25-42 standard a little better. She had been at Zizbaum's two years and knew her business. Her eye was bright, but cool, and had she chosen to match her gaze against the optic of the famed basilisk that fabulous monster's gaze would have wavered and softened first. Incidentally she knew buyers.

"Now, Mr. Platt," said Zizbaum,

"I want you to see these precious gowns in the light shades. They will be the thing in your climate. This first, if you please, Miss Asher." Swiftly in and out of the dressing room the prize model drew, each time wearing a new costume and looking more stunning with every change. She posed with absolute self-possession before the stricken buyer, who stood tongue tied and motionless while Zizbaum oiled the styles. On the model's face was her faint, impersonal professional smile that seemed to cover something like weariness or contempt.

He stood still as a granite cliff.

In Cactus City, trying to select one on which to build a house for his wife to be, who was just then in the dressing room taking off an evening gown of lavender and tulle.

"Take your time, Mr. Platt," said Zizbaum. "Think it over tonight. You won't find anybody else meet our prices on goods like these. I'm afraid you're having a dull time in New York, Mr. Platt. A young man like you—of course you miss the society of the ladies. Wouldn't you like a nice young lady to take out to dinner this evening? Miss Asher, now, is a very nice young lady; she will make it agreeable for you."

"Why, she doesn't know me," said Platt wonderingly. "She doesn't know anything about me. Would she go? I'm not acquainted with her."

"Would she go?" repeated Zizbaum, with uplifted eyebrows. "Sure, she would go. I will introduce you. Sure, she would go."

He called Miss Asher loudly. She came, calm and slightly contemptuous, in her white shirt waist and plain black skirt.

"Mr. Platt would like the pleasure of your company to dinner this evening," said Zizbaum, walking away.

"Sure," said Miss Asher, looking at the ceiling. "I'd be much pleased. Nine-eleven West Twentieth street. What time?"

"Say 7 o'clock."

"All right, but please don't come ahead of time. I room with a school teacher, and she doesn't allow any gentlemen to call in the room. There isn't any parlor, so you'll have to wait in the hall. I'll be ready."

At half past 7 Platt and Miss Asher sat at a table in a Broadway restaurant. She was dressed in a plain, filmy black. Platt didn't know that it was all a part of her day's work.

With the undisturbed aid of a good waiter he managed to order respectfully. The dinner minus the usual Broadway preliminaries.

Miss Asher dashed upon him a dazzling smile.

"Mayn't I have something to drink?" she asked.

"Why, certainly," said Platt. "Anything you want."

"A dry Martini," she said to the waiter.

When it was brought and set before her Platt reached over and took it away.

"What is this?" he asked.

"A cocktail, of course."

"I thought it was some kind of tea you ordered. This is liquor. You can't drink this. What is your first name?"

"To my intimate friends," said Miss Asher freely, "it is 'Helen.'"

"Listen, Helen," said Platt, leaning over the table. "For many years every time the spring flowers blossomed on the prairie I got to thinking of somebody that I'd never seen or heard of. I know it was you the minute I saw you yesterday. I'm going back home tomorrow, and you're going with me. I know it, for I saw it in your eyes when you first looked at me. You needn't kick, for you've got to fall into line. Here's a little trick I picked out for you on my way over."

He flicked a two carat diamond solitaire ring across the table. Miss Asher dipped it back to him with her fork.

"Don't get fresh," she said severely.

"I'm worth $100,000," said Platt. "I'll build you the finest house in west Texas."

"You can't buy me, Mr. Buyer," said Miss Asher. "If you had $100,000,000, I didn't think I'd have to call you down. You didn't look like the others to me at first, but I see you're all alike."

"S'w' who?" asked Platt.

"All roll buyers. You think because we girls have to go out to dinner with you or lose our jobs that you're privileged to say what you please. Well, forget it. I thought you were different from the others, but I see I was mistaken."

Platt struck his fingers on the table with a gesture of sudden, illuminating satisfaction.

"I've got it," he exclaimed almost hilariously. "The Nicholson place over on the north side. There's a big grove of live oaks and a natural lake. The old house can be pulled down and the new one set farther back."

"Put out your pipe," said Miss Asher. "I'm sorry to wake you up, but you fellows might as well get wise, once for all, to where you stand. I'm supposed to go to dinner with you and help fully you along so you'll trade with old Zizzy, but don't expect to find me in any of the suits you buy."

"Do you mean to tell me," said Platt, "that you go out this way with customers and they all—thy all talk to you as I have?"

"They all make plays," said Miss Asher. "But I must say that you've got 'em beat in one respect. They generally talk diamonds, while you've actually dug one up."

"How long have you been working, Helen?"

"Not my name, pal, haven't you? I've been supporting myself for eight years. I was a cash girl and a wrapper and then a shop girl until I was grown, and then I got to be a suit model. Mr. Texas Man, don't you think a little wine would make this dinner a little less dry?"

"You're not going to drink wine any more, dear. It's awful to think how I'll come to the store tomorrow and get you. I want you to pick out an automobile before we leave. That's all we need to buy here."

"Oh, cut that out—if you know how sick I am of hearing such talk."

After the dinner they walked down Broadway and came upon Diana's little, wooded park. The trees caught Platt's eye at once, and he must turn along under the winding walk beneath them. The lights shone upon two bright tears in the model's eyes.

"I don't like that," said Platt. "What's the matter?"

"Don't you mind," said Miss Asher. "Well, it's because—well, I didn't think you were that kind when I first saw you. But you are all alike. And now will you take me home, or will I have to call a cop?"

Platt took her to the door of her boarding house. They stood for a minute in the vestibule. She looked at him with such scorn in her eyes that even his heart of oak began to waver. His arm was halfway around her waist when she struck him a stinging blow on the face with her open hand.

As he stepped back a ring fell from somewhere and bounded on the tiled floor. Platt groped for it and found it.

"Now, take your useless diamond and go, Mr. Buyer," she said.

"This was the other one—the wedding ring," said the Texan, holding the smooth gold band on the palm of his hand.

Miss Asher's eyes blazed upon him in the half darkness.

"Was that what you meant? Did you?"

"Somebody opened the door from inside the house."

"Good night," said Platt. "I'll see you at the store tomorrow."

Miss Asher ran up to her room and shook the schoolteacher until she sat up in bed ready to scream "Fire!"

"Where is it?" she cried.

"That's what I want to know," said the model. "You've studied geography, Helen, and you ought to know. Where is a town called Cactus City?"

"How dare you wake me up for that?" said the schoolteacher. "Cactus is in Venezuela, of course."

"What's it like?"

"Why, it's principally earthquakes and big snakes and monkeys and material fever and volcanoes."

"I don't care," said Miss Asher lightly. "I'm going there tomorrow."

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

WITH Dr. King's New Discovery FOR COUGHS AND ALL THROAT AND LUNG TROUBLES. GUARANTEED SATISFACTORY OR MONEY REFUNDED.

Liver Trouble Remedy Free

Any intelligent person can be his own doctor in the ordinary case of liver trouble, for the symptoms can not be mistaken. If the white of the eye becomes yellowish, if the skin becomes sallow, if pimples and blotches appear, if the bowels do not move, if you have sick headache, if you are bilious, you may be sure that your liver is torpid or inactive.

The quickest and surest remedy yet found for the cure of liver trouble or any of its symptoms is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the great herb laxative compound. This wonderful remedy is not only a laxative, but a tonic as well. It will start the flow of gastric juices, thereby soon enabling the liver to do its work naturally. A bottle of this great liver remedy can be bought of any druggist for 50 cents or $1, and in many cases a single bottle has cured a chronic case.

For example, John W. Lee, 619 S. Pennsylvania ave., Indianapolis, Ind., had a stubborn and very long-standing case of liver trouble, with pimples, blotches, scurvy, etc., and it cured him. Mrs. B. Fincham, Jackson, Ky., says the same of it. Thousands of families keep it in the house against just such an emergency, as you can never tell when some member of the family will need a good laxative.

In order to have you or any other sufferer from the liver make a test of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin without personal expense, Dr. Caldwell will send you a free test bottle if you will send your name and address. The sample will show you how pleasant it is to take, how gently it works. It will start you on the cure of your trouble and convince you that you have found a cure. That is the object of the sample, and the doctor urges you to send for it today.

If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 307 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

NERVOUS WEEK WAS LAST ONE

In the Wheat Pit With Out-siders Cautious.

Bull Leaders in Control of Market—Talk of Hostile Legislation on Future Delivery.

ADVANCE IS NOTED IN CORN

Chicago, Jan. 12.—The wheat market last week was a nervous affair with trade purely local in character and the great bulk of the business between pit professionals. There is a disposition among the outside traders to look ahead and weigh the various influences that are to make values in the next six months with more caution than usual. This feeling is due to the prices being regarded as high and to the uncertainty of the consumption requirements and invisible supplies. The general surroundings of the market remain unchanged. The bull leaders again demonstrated their control of the market, when, during a decline, the Patten brokers bought enough wheat to strengthen the market again.

Scattered longs, however, realized so persistently on their holdings on all the hard spots during the week that prices at the end of the week's business showed small declines as compared to the close of the previous week. May wheat lost 3/4c, July 3/4c and September suffered a loss of 1c. Increasing congestion is shown in wheat daily fractional fluctuations. No long wait of consequence comes on sale. If there is any short interest of importance it is with speculators of great wealth, and even these have outstanding lines of little moment. It is believed that the big long interest here is offset to a large extent by hedging sales made by interior millers who own the cash wheat and do not propose to be caught in the same position as to supplies at the end of the crop year that they were last year when cash wheat premiums were very high. Thus far most of these mills have been able to take care of all their flour trade by purchases in their own immediate locality. Their flour sales, however, have been very light for the last six weeks. Both spring and winter wheat millers unite in reporting prospects for immediate improvement very slim.

No Excitement Over Cold Wave.
The cold wave over the winter wheat belt materialized as expected, but there has been no indication that the country has become excited over its effects. Very low temperatures prevailed over all winter wheat country west of the Mississippi river. There was practically no snow cover laid over the crop and its backward condition therefore led to fears that serious losses might have been incurred. Nevertheless there was nothing in the market to indicate wide spread anxiety. A little rush of buying was as much due to the technical speculative position of pit traders as to any other one condition or influence. George W. Patten expressed the opinion that the winter wheat crop had been seriously damaged by the severe freeze, but added that no body could know the extent of the damage until spring. Wheat speculators believe that if there is anything in the idea of the winter-killing of drilled wheat the present crop must have suffered to a considerable extent. Any damage, in the opinion of experts, will be largely confined to late-planted wheat, where the plan was in a tender stage and not well rooted.

Hostile Legislation.

General comment was occasioned in board of trade circles by an editorial in the Modern Miller, in which is forcibly set forth the probability that legislation hostile to future delivery trading in grain may be attracted by the present bull campaign in wheat. The editorial says in part: "A great Chicago grain merchant, having established his leadership on the bull side of the present wheat argument, is now, by reason of his reputed enormous holdings, credited with an intention to corner the May delivery. Former big markets, with one man or a syndicate of men in absolute control of the situation, have resulted in great injury to business and it is probable that, should the present anticipated campaign be put through, much the same effects will attend it. In recent years, along with the taking and the desire to reform the methods of speculative grain exchanges have not escaped un-noticed. A fair portion of the people and a larger portion of the politicians have rather had their eyes on the exchanges, with more or less matured notion that a little reform might not go amiss there. Furthermore, a large part of the grain trade itself has lost its love for spectacular markets, unlikely that

ANY KIDNEY OR BLADDER TROUBLE

Readily Relieved by This Simple Home Made Mixture.

Here is a prescription that anyone can mix at home. Any good prescription pharmacy can supply the ingredients named at little cost; being composed of vegetable extracts, it is harmless and inexpensive. Best of all it does its work well, relieving even the worst forms of bladder trouble, frequent urination, backache, kidney complaint, and by its direct action upon the eliminative tissue of the kidneys, makes these most vital organs rid the blood and system of waste matter and uric acid which causes rheumatism.

Here it is: try it. If you suffer: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Karkon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

Former sufferers often state that one week's use shows curative results in nearly every instance, and such symptoms as lame back, frequent desire to urinate, pain in bladder and even chronic rheumatism are generally relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

about one more sensational wheat campaign will so focus attention upon the present bad system as to lead directly to the trade reforming law rules or to the government taking action to eliminate the fictitious price, the gambler and the one-man market.

Europe Playing Waiting Game.

No activity has been noted in the exporting of wheat and it is apparent that Europe is playing a waiting game. With as much wheat coming from the southern hemisphere as last year and with supplies in store and afloat by no means dangerously low, it is evident that the foreign buyer is not disposed to load up heavily with wheat just at the beginning of the Argentine wheat movement. While purchases from Canada and the United States, made some time back at lower prices, are arriving to supplement supplies from elsewhere and keep stocks replenished, Argentina is beginning to forward supplies variously estimated the same to 40 per cent smaller than last year's.

Advance in Corn.

Corn, helped by a good industrial demand, both local and eastern, together with light receipts and covering by shorts, scored a slight advance in prices for the week. May and July gained 3/4c each, and September was 3/4c higher for the week.

VENEZUELAN ENVOY

Arrives in France and Will Negotiate for Settlement.

Bordeaux, Jan. 11.—Jose De J. Paul, Venezuelan envoy sent to Europe by President Gomez to arrange a settlement of Venezuela's difficulties with the powers of Europe, arrived here today. He will leave for Paris tomorrow. Paul said the object of his mission was to arrive at a pacific and amicable understanding on all pending questions with France, Holland, England, Germany and Italy.

Ready to Negotiate.

Paris, Jan. 11.—It is announced that the French government is ready and willing to receive any proposition looking to a settlement of the questions pending between France and Venezuela, provided it receives sufficient proof that Paul represents the established government of Venezuela and is personally empowered to act. Nothing is known at the foreign office of the rumored project that Great Britain, Holland and France will act together in the matter of the settlement with Venezuela.

GOOD YEAR

ENJOYED BY THE SUTHERLAND MEDICINE COMPANY.
Declares Annual Dividend of 10 Per Cent and Pays Up Profit—Pays Out $50,000.

The E. E. Sutherland Medicine company held their annual meeting last night at the offices of the company and the old board of directors and officers were re-elected for the ensuing year. Mr. R. Rudy being president and treasurer, Mr. H. R. Lindsey vice-president and manager and Mr. Charles Alcott secretary.

Although last year was a panicky year and nearly all businesses felt the depression materially the company closed a successful and prosperous year, declared the usual 10 per cent cash dividend and passed the balance of its earnings to surplus and undivided profits account.

The directors and management felt gratified at the showing made in the face of conditions, and in a large measure attribute the success to the well established reputation and merit of Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey and Sutherland's Eagle Eye Salve as well as the other preparations they manufacture.

Few people in Paducah realize the importance to the city of such institutions as this. The pay roll for the year amounts to over $50,000, practically every dollar of which is spent in Paducah. Little of this is Paducah money, but is money drawn from every state in the union as well as foreign countries.

TOBACCO NEWS

Hopkinsville Tobacco.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 12.—All branches of the local tobacco market were very active last week, sales of 1907 tobacco by the Planters' Protective association being good, receipts heavy and prices holding firm and high.

Sales by the Planters' Protective association were 111 hogheads, all of this being last year's tobacco. For the past three weeks sales have increased considerably, and it is believed that it will only be a short time until the balance of the 1907 crop at this place, amounting to about 1,600 hogheads, will be disposed of. The association has reduced the price of lugs from $7.00 to $5.50 and $6.00, and at this price they are expected to move quickly. The deal for about 7,500 hogheads of lugs which has been on for some time, and pending which lugs have been held off the market all over the district, is said to be off and this tobacco has now been put on sale again.

The first sales of the 1908 crop were those on the loose floor. The first sale was held last Wednesday, and subsequent sales were held on Friday and Saturday. Something near 100,000 pounds were sold during the week at good prices, these ranging as follows: Trash lugs, $3.25 to $4.65; common lugs, $4.75 to $5.50; good lugs, $6.00 to $6.50; common leaf, $6.00 to $7.50; medium leaf, $8.00 to $9.50; good leaf, $10.00 to $12.25. No fine leaf offered.

"Can't Make Us Criminals."

Baltimore, Jan. 11.—In what he said was his first reference to the recent sentence of himself, John Mitchell and Secretary Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, Samuel Gompers said:

"The granting of the injunction, and the sentence imposed by Judge Wright were grossly unjust and not even a judge nor his sentence can put a stigma upon my colleagues and myself, nor make criminals of us."

"The injustice of it is shown by the fact that the very things we are forbidden to do, every other citizen has the right to do, and it is this that we are protesting against."

By Dr. Jos. Creamer.

"I examined Dorando immediately after he was carried from the track. His heart was in a bad shape and he was in a state of total collapse. In my opinion, the condition of his heart was due partly to overstimulation. His handlers gave him stuff from a bottle which they said was coffee. Even coffee taken in such quantities would be likely to affect his stomach and cause his collapse. There wasn't a bruise on him to show that the fall did any damage."

Society of Equity prize houses were heavy.

Another heavy sale for the week ending January 7 is reported by Auditor Seales, of the Planters' Protective association, for the ten markets of the dark tobacco district, all these being of 1907 tobacco, and amounting to 2,125 hogheads. There is now only about 14,000 hogheads of the 1907 crop left on hand in the entire district, and it is believed that this will soon be disposed of.

Clarksville Tobacco.
Clarksville, Tenn., Jan. 12.—Our receipts last week were 16 hogheads. The deliveries of loose tobacco were full the early part of the week, but since the cold wave they have ceased. Since the lower prices have been established the market has been active, and the salesmen of the Planters' association sold last week about 500 hogheads, mainly lugs, to the French, Spanish, American Snuff company and other buyers. The unsold stock is being rapidly reduced. The planters who sold early in the season got the cream of the sales.

A loose tobacco warehouse has been opened at Hopkinsville and the sales seem satisfactory to the planters. So far no loose house has been opened here. We quote: Low lugs, $5.50 to $6.00; common lugs, $6.00 to $6.50; medium lugs, $6.50 to $7.00; good lugs, $7.00 to $7.50; low leaf, $7.00 to $8.00; common leaf, $8.50 to $9.00; medium leaf, $9.50 to $10.50; good leaf, $11.00 to $12.00; fine leaf, $12.00 to $13.50. Choice selections, none offering.

LIVESTOCK.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 12.—Cattle—Receipts 2,570; there was a good attendance of buyers on the yards, both local and foreign, but, owing to liberal receipts and lower markets elsewhere, the trade was sluggish in many instances, not near as much activity noticeable as there was a week ago. Choice heavyweight butcher cattle were in good demand and fully steady, medium and inferior butcher stock slow, draggy, some thought a shade to 10¢ lower, particularly on medium and common butcher cows. Good healthy demand for good feeders and stockers, fairly good inquiry for good weight stop steers, common, light, trashy stockers slow. Bulls firm, canners and cutters slow. Milch cows unchanged. Heavy steer trade dull, most sellers thought 10¢ to 15¢ lower, that is, on fat steers, weighing 1,000 lbs. and up. Pigs fairly well cleared, and trade closed steady in most instances. ARE ALL THE MEN CHARGED WITH BANK ROBBERY.

The Paducahans Indicted for Bandana Affair Will Be Out Until April.

Before tomorrow, it is thought, all of the four men accused of robbing the Bank of Bandana will be out on bond. Ernest Elmendorf, who has been in jail many months, has given bond, and arrived in Paducah this morning, and he brought the news that John Bulger will give bond sometime today and will be released from the jail at Wickliffe. Sam Evans was in jail only a few months when he succeeded in giving bond, and Will Husbands gave bond immediately upon having the warrant served on him. ## SKULKING

AROUND VACANT HOUSES IN HUNTINGTON ROW.

School Girls Frightened By Fellow Who Uses Insulting Language Toward Them.

Some unknown negro has been skulking around the vacant houses in Huntington row, in the rear of the Illinois Central shops, and has made insulting remarks to the small girls that pass the houses while en route home from attending the Washington school. This morning two girls in the second grade reported to Superintendent J. A. Carnagey that for several afternoons a yellow negro wearing a soft hat had followed them and had used bad language. The small girls were frightened by the conduct of the negro was reported to the members of the family, but search of the houses failed to reveal the negro.

Several years ago a negro hung around the vacant houses and made himself a nuisance, but the citizens were up in arms and the fellow did not repeat the act. This afternoon at the hour for dismissal of the school Fred Hoyer, a former captain of the police force, but now superintendent of school buildings and Hugh Miller, policeman for the railroad, will lay in wait for the negro and if caught it probably will go hard with the fellow.
